

CONRAD MRI THERMAL BLANKETS

CONRAD-MRI-GROUPED*

PRODUCT DESCRIPTION

Conrad thermal blanket

Shorter anaesthesia recovery times with the ConRad thermal blankets

For use immediately after induction of anaesthesia to protect your patients against heat loss. Designed with two functional options, one for general use and one for use during an MRI, the ConRad blanket works by reducing patient heat loss using three layers that act as a barrier to all three mechanisms of heat loss: conductive, convective, and radiant. The three layers are made up of the fluid impermeable outer shell, the inner radiant barrier, and the inner fibrous insulating layer.

Key Features

- Soft, supple, and fluid proof
